
Title: A Hastily Written Field Report On The Nefarious Bellatrix Adhara

Author: Bon Iver

The Lead on Bellatrix Adhara, as commenced by Lady Danica Amandine

Lady Danica Amandine was found at our headquarters in Jhelom with a bit of a problem. She had announced she had a lead on a certain felon...

Bellatrix Adhara. Danica told me that she was up to trouble, atleast thats what our spies had told her. She had then forwarded me to speak to a troubled mythical creature at the shrine of Chaos.

Once at the shrine of Chaos, a little ways south, we met Quinn the Miserly Leprechaun, of whom was immediately shoos me away and reveals that he is waaaiting for "someone".
He reveals that these are dangerous times and I will be sorry if I stay and wait for whatever it is to come. Quinn talks about how a dangerous force is spreading across the lands enslaving various creatures. This force is a person who is a veteran of old hexes and forgotten magics. Quinn would rather committ him self to the abyss rather than join forces with "her" and wreak havoc upon the lands. He asks you to help him prepare for his death by collecting several items from this world into the next to regain his liberty.

ITEMS:

1. First he will require a simple lantern, a beacon of light in a dark place.
2. Second he will require a bit of wool from the back of a black sheep.
3. Third he will require a bit of nightshade.
4. He will require something to steep the nightshade, have you any cider?
5. He will require one more thing... give a lonely leprechaun a Kiss?

He then told me that he will sit there for a while, Bellatrix Adhara will be surprised! She will be surprised once he drops dead at her feet and can no longer serve her.

Quinn then sent me to the one of Bellatrix Adhara's old school teachers, "the telescope man" in Moonglow.

Selcius the Astronomer is located at the telescope east of Moonglow, when I approached him he will be crying and pronounces himself a "broken man". Bellatrix had demanded an old book from Selcius, an old book from a long time ago. The book turns out to be an old school journal from when Selcius had taught Bellatrix magic. He felt so guilty when I brought up the word School that he broke out into tears! He then explained that Bellatrix was orphaned and was brought to Selcius as a child. Bellatrix had a mute younger sister, that younger sister being Danica. She was found locked in a cupboard, that cupboard being locked from the outside. The key to that cupboard belonged to Bellatrix, but the reason was never explained. When Bellatrix first came to Selcius, her name was Charlotte Amandine... until she found the telescope. She had peered through the telescope and found a pair of stars in the emptiness and thus renamed herself. She came to Selcius currently to claim her old school book from Selcius' home south of the telescope, but why? When I traveled to his house, the remains of a burnt book lie on the floor with only two words remaining legible, "Claudia's Cave". After hearing from a little birdy that Claudia's Cave was right next to the Wrong Dungeon in Felucca, the same area from the Golden Hart of Atlantic Event! Inside the cave, or abode let's say, I found a note reading "Collecting Memories, Next To Find Flint And Christine!". Flint and Christine....

Ponders a famous UO couple who both have left Ultima Online but have had a memorial built in their honor. West from the Britain Swamps in the Felucca facet lies this beautiful memorial where yet another note can be found reading, "I Know You Are Following Me! You Are Too Late, These Memories Are Mine, Cromwell Is Next!". Cromwell, a former Seer, had an estate built on the north side of Felucca Nujel'm. Here I had found two notes stating, "Still

Following Me? The Memories Of The Past
Are Powerful Weapons, Can You Stand Up To Them?" and "Can You Answer This? "At What
Tavern Does The Serpent Rest? At What X Do
The Lines Meet?"".

I foolishly couldn't put two and two together until my peer had finally helped me but in the end I had come up with Serpent's Cross, a player created bar from the old times. I had found this place north east from the Felucca Yew gate and here I was met by a humble bartender by the name of Hendall who kindly pointed us to a shield in the grass of the front lawn. This shield read, "A Sign Of Chaos To Mark Your Way, Its Master Was Far Greater Than Any Of You!".

The Master of Chaos, being Lord Blackthorn insisted that I go to his castle. There I found, alongside his tomb, yet another note stating, "No More Clues, No More Games, Your Memories
Are Mine And Your Doom Assured." Next to the note walked a Bird of Paradise who I spoke with. It spoke of Chaos being the balance, the dark horse, the Lord saw it rise in a book. This book was located on the second story library in the Blackthorn Castle, a small red book perched upon a shelf. This book was titled, "A Dusty Forgotten Small Tome
"Scribed While In Nightshade Stupor", the author being A Relict Lord. This tome depicts a vivid story:

"... the dark half of a pair will she be born.
Older than her lighter half, ages hence from now.
... her parents will she murder, her sister will she hate. The lands will part and flee from her poisoned roots.
O'er the flesh, into myth will she pass. Return she will with memories past.
The death of us all will be thereby fortold... The raven hair'd girl with the stars in her name shall wreck the world under the banner of a perverted ideal.
The Ideal of Chaos, once proud and true, trodden into the ground and twisted into the depths...
Can the ideal be rescued, can the world be saved... the sisters can not be parted from the world alone, this much is true..."
TO BE CONTINUED...

This field report was written and investigated by:
Bon Iver Master Sergeant of the Crux Ansata

*
* *
*

*
*
*
*